

Background

This devotional can be used to help you grow as Christians together. Just follow the steps.

1. Parent(s): Read this ahead of time to prepare

This devotional goes along with Pastor Patrick Voo's kids' time talk on Easter Sunday about heroes and how heroes help others and give us hope.

Jesus is the ultimate hero. He helps others and gives us hope. Plus, in the middle of the coronavirus pandemic, we can see other heroes in action as well. They are people who help others and give us hope.

This devotional is very simple. People with kids have a lot going on right now and it can be stressful. So for this family devotional, it's all about making family time quality time.

2. Materials Needed

None! Well, actually, you'll need to write (or print out) these three questions.

- How has God given you help or hope today? (You may need to provide some examples to show what you mean)
- Who is someone you've seen or heard about who is serving or helping others?
- How did Jesus' love make me do something differently today?

3. Activity

Take note of the three questions below and just use them as discussion starters throughout the day—maybe in the car, during dinner, or at bedtime... whenever!
